A great and unconquerable interest in electronic music revealed itself to DJ Mars in late 2000. The time put everything right, and in the year 2004 he played his first gig behind the decks of the Matrix Club, Kaliningrad. From then on, Mar's talent was sized up by clubbers and DJs, spawning more and more success over time....

In the second half of 2006, now an eStation resident, DJs Mars and Matter teamed up to make a national break-through -- becoming the first DJs to represent Russia on the largest breaks radio station in the world, NSB Radio. But that's not all -- the two guys went further, deciding to break the settled visions of DJing by smoothly combining nuskool breaks and drum&bass on their show, "Broken Communistic Beats." The success of that combination brought on the collaboration of "The Elements" on Nubreaks Radio, this time expanding the boundaries further by adding Psy and Techno to the mix. Along with holding down two weekly radio shows, Mars is quickly becoming a producer. With a musical style combining funk, filth, and neuro bass ingredients, it's only a matter of time before you will find yourself dancing uncontrollably.
